Evolution and the End of Civilization

by Tom Willis

In the May/June, 2005 issue, we discussed the effect of evolution on the way our government and citizens deal with injured people like Terri Shiavo. This issue we intend to develop briefly the case that evolution is obvious myth to anyone but those in willful disregard for truth. More importantly, we will develop the idea that widespread acceptance of evolution as truth will be a, or perhaps the, catalyst bringing about the demise of civilization.

Evolution is Obvious Myth

We have extensively developed this topic throughout our writings and seminars, so the evidence need be only summarized:

1. In the entire history of both science and man, not one object as complex as a pocket comb has ever been observed to come into existence by any process other than creation, in spite of millions of experiments to prove otherwise. Therefore, the following, which I call "The 1st Law of Complex Systems," is as proven a law of science as any that exist: "All Complex Systems Owe Their Existence to Acts of Creation Involving Plan and Work By One or More Intelligent Living Beings."
2. After 400 years of Origin of Life experiments, the following statement was accepted by all as a Law of Science: "Life Comes Only From Life, and After It's Kind."
It should be obvious to any but the dullest of mind that this Second Law is redundant in that it already followed from the First. But, it is relevant that the possibility of the First Law somehow not applying to life has been extensively tested with 100% experimental failure. Thus, the notion that Life may have spontaneously generated is not science, but anti science.
3. In the entire history of both science and man, including the so-called "fossil record" there is not one observed new biological structure... no internal organs, no external structures. As succinctly put by Isaac Newton, the most productive scientist in history, "If I had to offer evidence for God, my thumb would suffice." Thus, the notions that mollusks grew limbs to become crustaceans, that crustaceans lost limbs to become fishes, that fishes grew limbs to become reptiles or amphibians, that reptiles lost limbs to become snakes, that reptiles grew hair, mammary glands, etc. to become mammals... not one such notion is "science." Teaching them as science, as is routinely done in virtually every biology text in America, can honestly be called "Myth!" Obviously the same is true of item (2) above. Thus, evolution is myth, and everyone alive, if he bothers to stop and think about it, knows that

Creation Safaris should be better than ever this year. Designed for all ages and educational levels, these outings are attended and enjoyed by toddlers to octogenarians, singles, families, youth or church groups. Safari size varies from a dozen to over a hundred. Everyone has a good time and brings back something of eternal value. Reserve your slots early. See end of this article!

June 25 - 27 (Sat - Mon) - Ozark Stream Float Trip - Camp, canoe and swim in the beautiful Jack's Fork River in the heart of the Missouri Ozarks. A delightful weekend, and grow in grace and knowledge of river and canyon formation; what purifies our atmosphere; and the awesome "evidence for God's eternal power and deity" [Rom 1:20].

July 16 (Saturday) - 9:00AM-4:00PM - KU Natural History Museum, picnic, and a truly rare experience... God-honoring tour of a Natural History Museum.

August 13 (Saturday) - 10:00AM - 2:30PM - Rock Bridge Cave Tour - A truly "wild" cave, i.e., no fancy sidewalks or lights. We bring our own lights. One of Missouri's longest caves in the heart of Missouri's famous Karst region (a region marked by caves, sinkholes, natural bridges, underground rivers, etc.

Only Safaris through August 13 are listed here. More Safaris are scheduled in 2005. Also, The information above is insufficient to attend a safari. Evolutionism and the End of Civilization (cont'd from pg 1) evolution is myth! Therefore, Evolution is Obvious Myth!

Q.E.D.

Evolutionism and Christianity

The chief belief held by evolutionists, that few admit in public, is not the bizarre convictions that fish sired lizards, lizards sired mammals, mammals sired man, etc. Among evolutionists, these beliefs are all up for grabs, and can change at any time. Rather the primary article of faith among evolutionists is that the Bible does not offer the true history of the Cosmos and that "science" does, or at least "science," while it changes daily, "can arrive at truth about history, and that truth will involve some sort of evolution."

"But," some will say, "that's absurd, many Christians believe in evolution." While that issue is beyond the scope of this paper, a couple comments are appropriate. 1. This type of statement is most frequently made by atheists who do not believe one word of Christianity, but consider themselves experts on it, and thus competent to tell us who and what is Christian. But Jesus, who at least deserves the title of "Founder" of Christianity, said there would be many false prophets and many wolves in sheep's clothing. He and his disciples also made it quite clear that, at any given time, there would be many Christians who would be babies in Christ, incapable of understanding truth. 2. Jesus also made it quite clear in his last major public prayer that true Christians would be set apart (sanctified) by their common unity about the Word of God, which Jesus emphatically called "Truth." But, among "christian evolutionists," I challenge the reader to find one who can make a sound defense of either evolution or an old Earth from Scripture.

Therefore such statements by atheists, and even by "christians" are irrelevant. They tell us nothing about whether evolutionist "christians" are even Christians, much less whether they are mature in Christ or in their understanding of the Bible.

My universal experience in discussing evolutionism with "christian evolutionists" is that, virtually to a man, they have developed a "scholarly" way of rejecting the obvious meaning of Scripture. Typical of such "scholarship" is a current discussion with a Purdue graduate with a Masters in "theology." I had pointed out that Exodus 20 clearly commands us to "Work six days because God worked six days," leaving no time for evolution, and this was affirmed by Exodus 31 and Genesis 1. He was able to lift his nose, sniff, and arrogantly inform me that Exodus 20 can not mean that because Exodus 31 contains the phrase that God "rested and was refreshed." If you are confused, you just haven't been around "scholars" enough. What he means, but would not say, is that "Exodus 31 contains three words that I deem to be non-literal, therefore I am free interpret any part of the Bible I choose to be non-literal, therefore, Exodus 20 does not mean God created in six days." Using this kind of "exegesis" one can make the Bible say, or not say, anything that he wants. It's use is not unique to "christian evolutionists." It has been practiced by, and is an essential strategy for, "wolves in sheep's clothing" for all of history.

Evolutionism Will Destroy Civilization

Having rejected Scripture as the chief guide to man both the "atheist" and the wolf are left with only human opinion for what constitutes right or "moral" behavior. Furthermore, both classes of people were described by Jesus, "They hate you because they first hated me." Of course, both may deny that they "hate Jesus," but the Jesus they may not hate is one they have invented. The statement by Jesus remains true, they hate the real Jesus, the one who said "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man comes to the father except by me!"

Hating Jesus and rejecting the obvious meaning of Scripture has thus left the atheist and "christian evolutionist" with only their own opinion for a moral compass. "In those days there was no king in Israel, but every man did that which was right in his own eyes." (Judges 17:6 KJV) As anyone who has bothered to observe human behavior, or study history, knows full well, the mind of Man, left to his own "moral compass," is fully capable of the most grotesque atrocities imaginable, and history is littered with examples, including the bodies of hundreds of millions of human beings. This is true whether the dominant religion is pagan, pseudo christian, or atheist.

Greeks, Romans, Persians, etc. are regarded as pagans who built their civilizations around conquest, murder and pillage.

The Roman Church, 90+% pagan after it was made the state religion of Rome (and containing many evolutionists like Augustine and Aquinas), made the Bible a forbidden book, and distorted it so badly that the Reformation had to go all the way to Greece and other Middle Eastern countries to find the original Scriptures. Romanists proved that once the Scripture is eliminated, or reduced to "symbolic," leaving it up to individual interpretation, then, "the Church," rather than restraining society, destroys it. During the "Dark Ages" and 1200+ years rule by the Roman Church, historians argue over whether they killed 50 or 60 million people.

Islam plagiarized Romanism and further distorted Scripture. Murder, robbery and conquest (via "Jihad") have been their primary methods of evangelism for 1400 years. Numbers are murky but, Islam seems to have about equaled the Romanist Church.

The "Reformation" was joined by many ex-Romanist elements that adopted some Romanist notions, allowing modern enemies of Christ to claim "Reformation" behavior was horrible. But, all people who have seriously researched it say that the "Reformers" (even with the wolves who crept in among them) actually killed very few people. The most widely read commentator, of the 20th Century, Henry Halley, said reformers killed 300 to 1000 people in 500 years, and most of these were for treason, actually plotting to overthrow the government.

Evolutionists are a hoot to hear on this subject. At the Kansas Science Standards hearings, with unmitigated arrogance, the evolutionist's attorney asked every witness if he was aware of the great harm caused by religion in the past. No one ever reminded him that evolutionists killed 150 million people in about 60 years, an annual killing rate at least 20 times as great as the worst estimates for Islam or the Romanist Church. It is even more humorous when one notes that the "religion" that evolutionists love to hate, and claim to fear, most, Evangelical Christianity, is not known by history to have killed anyone (though surely there must be some exceptions I have overlooked). And, all of "Reformed Christianity" killed only a few hundred. Thus, evolutionists claim to fear a group whose annual killing rate has been exceeded by evolutionists by a factor of about 80 million to one! Also, governments based on evolutionism, e.g., in Russia, Germany and Eastern Europe brought every culture they controlled to such a state of chaos and destruction that even the evolutionists gave up power with no, or minimal, struggle.

Thus, Evolutionism has empirically demonstrated itself to be the most ruthless and effective destroyer of civilization in history. Anyone who thinks the leopard will change his spots is not using observation or logic.

Real Scientists Just Say NO! By Tom Willis

Help your family and friends understand Creation/Evolution in a way that they will never be deceived again! The book examines stereotypical evolutionary "reasoning" rather than dwelling on the latest "discoveries." There are many good books, but this one will greatly reduce the number you need to read. If you don't agree, return it in good condition for a refund.

The Evolution of a Creationist

Describes Dr. Jobe Martin's personal journey from an evolution-trained scientist to a Bible-believing creationist. Dr. Martin examines many of the claims and theories of prominent evolutionists, comparing their often incredible, inconsistent, pseudoscientific explanations of origins to the clear and simple description of the Creation as depicted in the Bible.

The Fossil Record

What Does it Really Tell Us? - Part II

By: Bob Farwell

Since evolutionism has no success in the laboratory or in the field, they have always depended heavily on stories about the meaning of fossils as their primary apologetic argument. For nearly 200 years, they have told stories, and claimed their stories were "science," but do they really stand up under scrutiny? Your first clue should be that "science" does not consist of stories about what may have happened in the distant past. Science is supposedly about postulates describing the current operating characteristics of the Cosmos, each of which must experience 100% experimental success. Evolution experiences 100% experimental failure.

Why Study Origins?

What Does Genesis Really Say?

By: George Schulte

Which will we believe - atheistic evolution, theistic evolution or God's Special Creation? A cluster of issues in the church today revolves around, "Do we really believe the Bible... All of the Bible? Are the first 11 chapters of Genesis part of God's infallible Word, or are they, as some say, just an accumulation of stories that somehow were added to the front of God's Holy Scripture?" What do the Old Testament, the New Testament and Jesus say about Genesis? We'll also peek at whether real science refutes or affirms a straightforward reading of Genesis.
